

Intern for Sensory and Consumer Research

As the leading European sensory and consumer research specialist, we are a competent and high-performing partner for all sectors in the FMCG industry, for food and non-food.

In support of our team at our headquarters in Munich we are looking for:

Interns

As intern, you support the project managers in their national and international projects: you will gain insights into the multifaceted work areas of our company, ranging from briefings and project coordination to data analysis. In addition, you will be supporting us in the preparation and fielding of consumer tests.

We are looking for a communicative and proactive individual with a strong interest in consulting, market research and/or sensory/ product development and product management for an internship of at least 3 months duration.

You should be good with numbers, work in a foresighted and structured way and fancy practice-oriented tasks. Besides, you should bring along language skills in German, English and/or French. We expect you to have good PC skills.

We offer an interesting diversified and responsible work field in an international company. Our team based in the attractive city Munich is looking forward to meeting you.

Did we catch your interest? Then we are looking forward to your application.

In case of questions, please do not hesitate to call Mrs. Menges, +49 (0) 89 743 767 12.
